

The following information was provided to ISSC:

On Monday November 13, 2017, the Washington State Department of Health closed the Maury Island Geoduck Tract #10150 to the commercial harvest of geoduck due to PSP toxin results on November 13 of 145µg/100g from geoduck collected on November 9. The Puyallup Tribe of Indians harvested geoduck on November 11 which is in the process of being recalled. At this time the following companies are identified in this recall: North American Natural Seafood Inc (WA-1654-SS) and Neptune Seafood (WA-1765-SS).

We will notify receiving states as we obtain information regarding distribution outside Washington State. It is Washington State's understanding that the implicated shellfish companies are in the process of contacting their customers. We will provide additional information and details of distribution as it becomes available.
