

Notice of Recall – Canadian Food Inspection Agency

The Canadian Food Inspection Agency has advised the FDA of a soft shell clam recall due to PSP test results. The affected clams were from two harvest areas. Two firms in Canada shipped product to three locations in Massachusetts. The firms in Massachusetts have been notified as well as the Massachusetts Department of Health. Should the ISSC receive additional information that would involve other states or other dealers, you will be notified. Date of notification to the United States was July 9, 2019.
