

The following information was provided to the ISSC on March 2, 2017 by the Washington State Department of Health:

Washington State is conducting a recall of shellstock due to a Norovirus outbreak associated with oysters. All shellstock harvested from 2/10/17 to 3/2/17 from the implicated portion of Hammersley Inlet growing area is being recalled. The recall area includes the southern shoreline beginning at SE Mell Rd east 300 yards to Marine Water Station 104 and the northern shoreline beginning at E Valley Rose Drive west 475 yards including Marine Water Station 663 (see attached map). The companies identified in this recall are Schreiber Shellfish Inc., WA 1042-SS, Goodro Shellfish WA-1042-SS, and Russ Shellfish WA 1029-SS. Some of this product was shipped to California. We have notified the California Department of Public Health and are not aware of any other states receiving implicated shellfish. It is Washington State's understanding that Schreiber Shellfish has already contacted its customers in California as well. We will provide the details of distribution as the information becomes available.
